

THIS IS TIFFANY N°8

Maybe we should reconsider how we think about luxury. It used to be that things most people thought were fancy felt a little uptight and too precious to touch.

Not anymore. At Tiffany, we think that even the most refined things can be worn every day, as long as you do it with ease and a little attitude. We feel that life is enriched when you surround yourself with beauty and the things and people you love. And, most emphatically, we believe that luxury no longer has anything to do with formality, and everything to do with taking pleasure in what you value most.

Elsa Peretti

Elsa Peretti's world is a remarkable place. She surrounds herself with textures, forms and materials that feed her eye and guide her designs. She is drawn to nature in all its purity and complexity. And she translates all she sees into jewelry and objects that are sculptural, organic and irresistibly sensual. These pages are just a small glimpse into the rich world that inspires her creative vision.

A complete catalogue of her designs, "My Forty Plus Years With Tiffany," is available in stores and online now.

“In Lausanne, a Texan guy gave me the endpiece of a rattlesnake tail as a good luck charm.
I kept the object with me for many years.”
Snake necklace in sterling silver from Elsa Peretti's personal collection.

PHOTOGRAPH BY IAN SANDERSON. PICTURED PHOTOGRAPHS BY HIRO AND BARBARA WALZ.

From the beginning, Peretti's Bone cuff caused a sensation. Her time in Barcelona was a strong source of inspiration, Antoni Gaudí's Casa Milà in particular.
Bone cuffs in 18k yellow gold with black jade and sterling silver from Elsa Peretti's personal collection.

Designed to look weathered by ages of contact with water and sand, Peretti's Aegean collection was sparked by a rusted chain that she found at the bottom of the sea.

Peretti's Mesh is influenced by her time in Jaipur. Malleable, ergonomic and crafted with exclusive technology created specifically for Tiffany, it drapes against the skin like fabric.

Peretti's objects for the table embody the idea that beauty and utility should always be one.

INTO THE Wild

We have always been inspired by the natural world and see it as our moral duty to sustain the wonders of the earth. We travel to Kenya to see our conservation work on the ground.

Photographs by Nadine Ijewere and Renell Medrano

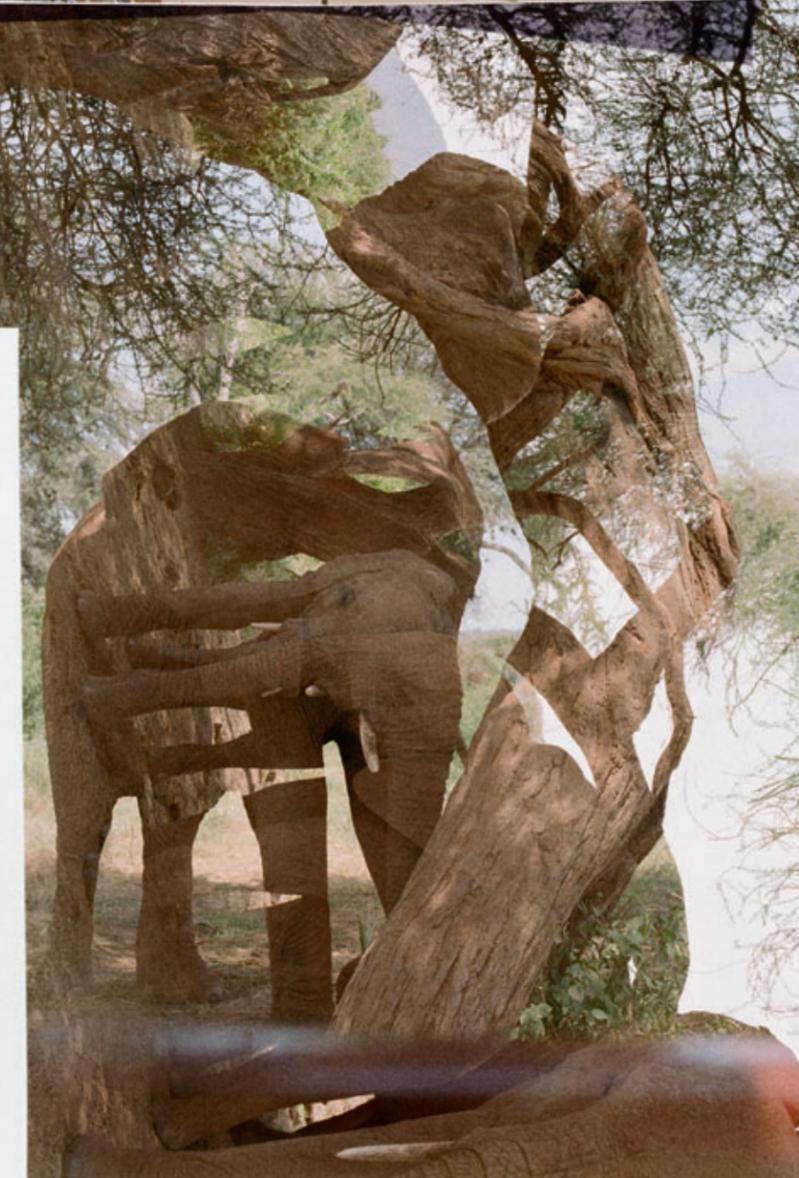

We launched the Tiffany Save the Wild collection in 2017 and are excited to add new Tiffany Save the Wild designs—including graphic, reimagined elephant, lion and rhinoceros charms, ingeniously constructed from precious mixed metals.

Since launching the collection in August 2017, we've pledged to donate 100% of profits to the Wildlife Conservation Network, with a total commitment of USD $4 million by January 2020.

BACKSTORY

CHIEF ARTISTIC OFFICER REED KRAKOFF DETAILS THE INTRICACIES
OF THE TIFFANY HIVE BOX IN STERLING SILVER AND VERMEIL.
THIS TIFFANY HOLLOWWARE SHOP MASTERPIECE IS PART OF OUR 2018 BLUE BOOK COLLECTION AND TOOK OVER SIX MONTHS TO CRAFT.

- The silversmith scores, bends and solders solid sterling silver sheets to create the box, then applies 24k gold vermeil honeycomb.
- The box’s hinges are made with archival dies called swedges.
- The chasers make all their tools by hand to form, define and texturize the insects.
- A finisher uses specialized stones to smooth and prepare the flat surface for polishing.
- A 150-year-old spring hammer is used to ensure each side is perfectly uniform.
